- Louisville is preparing two broadband applications:
Craig Buthod, with Louisville Free Public Library, described the library's application – increased bandwidth for all library computing centers, as well as new programs and computer equipment for 7 underserved branches
- Lisa Thompson, with New Directions, and other partners, described their application – partnership of UofL, Bluegrass.net, Americana, The California Collaborative, New Directions, LCCC, PCC and Urban League to provide new infrastructure in targeted areas (California, Russell, Smoketown, Shelby Park, Phoenix Hill, and Southside neighborhoods), expand capacities at neighborhood serving centers, and provide staff and equipment neighborhood centers.
- Bruce Traughber asked for questions and discussion... with the goal of group supporting one or both applications. Group strongly supported both, recognizing that Louisville already is low on the state's priority list being an urban center.
- Bruce Traughber also updated group about EECBG application. Conn Center was rejected as potential project, so group concurred with $500,000 being added to traffic light synchronization project.
